The Experts in Agging Well

The expertise of Agging Wisdom's Agging Life Care Professionals can be summarized into 8 knowledge areas. Let's take a closer look:

Health and Disability. From physical problems to mental health and dementia-related issues, our Care Managers interact with the health care system effectively and frequently. We attend doctor appointments and facilitate communication between doctor, client, and family. We help determine the types of services – including home health and hospice -- that are right for our clients and assist in engaging and monitoring those services.

Financial. Services may include referrals to fiduciaries or consulting with a client's accountant or Power of Attorney. Our Care Managers can provide information about Federal and state entitlements and connect families to local programs when appropriate.

Housing. We expertly guide families and clients through the wide range of options, help break down the costs and ensure the appropriate level of care is selected.

Family. We help families adjust, cope and problem-solve around long-distance and in-home caregiving, address care concerns, internal conflicts and differences of opinion about long-term care planning.

Local Resources. Aging Wisdom Care Managers know the local resources in our community like the back of our hands and know how services are accessed.

Advocacy. We are strong and effective advocates for our clients and their families, promoting the client's wishes with health care and other providers, ensuring that client's needs are being adequately addressed.

Legal. Our Aging Life Care Professionals refer to and partner with legal experts like elder law attorneys and estate planners. We help determine the client's needs and level of care when there are questions or conflict about what to do. Members of our team have also provided expert opinions to courts.

Crisis Intervention. Aging Wisdom offers crisis intervention when it is needed. We help clients navigate through emergency departments and hospitalizations, rehabilitation stays, and ensure optimum care is provided to your loved one. For families living at a distance, our services provide a much needed lifeline.
