If you were to visit Holly at her home, you'd soon learn that she has a love of travel. And this is a passion that she and her husband are encouraging in her children – they have a bucket list taped to their fridge of the places in the world they want to experience.

Holly and her husband have made a hobby of remodeling their home, and recently saved a historic cabin that was going to be torn down to make way for condos. They moved it across West Seattle and are incorporating it into their current home as an addition.

A native Washingtonian, Holly was born and raised in Olympia, where her love for reading and baking were nourished. She's also a lover of all animals, especially dogs. When she's not keeping the business of Aging Wisdom running smoothly as our Program Coordinator, she's remodeling her house, savoring local coffee or doing yoga.
