Spend a few minutes with Keri and two things become immediately apparent: she loves coffee and she loves work that benefits older adults and their families. Keri brings more than 20 years of marketing, communications, training and business development knowledge and expertise in aging services and gerontology.

At the core of everything she does is a personal mission to get meaningful, actionable information to people when they most need it. A relationship-oriented storyteller with a heart for serving others, connecting people with opportunities, and finding solutions to challenges by utilizing the gifts and talents of the team, Keri is known for being fearless in bringing people together to accomplish amazing things.

She serves on the Age-Friendly Seattle Task Force, the Frye Art Museum Creative Aging Advisory Committee, and the Alzheimer's Association Discovery Conference Planning Council.

Keri and her husband are avid Seattle Sounders fans. When not cheering on the green and blue, they love time with their family, especially their granddaughter Audrey.
